Dear Mr. Gates:

Thank you very much for taking the time last week to speak to our YPO Washington seminar.

Young Presidents' Organization has often provided me with interesting and thought provoking opportunities. This recent trip to our Nation's Capital was one of the highlights of my YPO career.

I listened to your comments as a citizen and as a defense contractor. In both positions I was very impressed not only with what I heard, but most importantly with the man behind the words. It is a great comfort to know that we have such intelligent and thoughtful people in Washington, thank you for that.

Thank you too for the time and courtesies that you extended to our group.

Sincerely,

Laura Jansen
President
CINPAC, INC.

P.S. I understand that you will a resource at the Berlin University, I hope that we might get a chance to talk further while there.

We have accepted the attached speaking engagement. It has been set up for 0815 to 0915 on 12 April in Rm. 450 OEOB. Mr. Rustand is an old friend of Bob's from the days Bob worked at the NSC.

They are expecting about 30 minutes followed by Qs and As. He assured me there would be no foreigners and no press. People like Carlucci and Scowcroft will be addressing this group.

Bob plans to use his "short" version of CIA and American Foreign Policy so there is no need for a new speech.

I am sending Mr. Rustand an official biography since he will be introducing him.

Deputy Director for Intelligence
Central Intelligence Agency

Dear Deputy Director:

The Young Presidents' Organization cordially invites you to meet with our group during our visit to the Nations capital April 11 - 13, 1988. Our last visit in Washington D.C. as an international group was in 1976.

Many who were in attendance were moved to public service from that experience, including several members of the current administration.

They are: Joe Wright, Deputy Director of OMB; Bob Tuttle, Presidential Personnel Office; Jack Courtemanche, Chief of Staff for the First Lady; and Carl Covitz, Under Secretary of HUD.

Our three day seminar is entitled Public Policy and the Private Sector. Our focus is on how public policy is formed and how the private sector can better interact with that policy formation. All of our participants are Chief Executive Officers of their companies. This will be an exceptional opportunity for these Presidents to hear from the top people in government and to solicit their views as to how we can affect a stronger interaction between the private and public sectors.

We will consider your acceptance of our invitation to be a very high honor, indeed. We look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Warren
